The Beauty of a Broken Spirit—Atheism

Discussion

1. In light of the absurdity of the evolution of the soda can, why do you think so many people deny that there is an intelligent Creator?
2. Why do you think many Christians feel intimidated about sharing their faith with people who profess to be atheists?
3. Many claim that there is no proof for God's existence. Is that true?
4. Do you like the building/builder analogy? What other evidence can you use to prove the existence of God?
5. "There is no God" is an absolute statement. Do you think an atheist can make that statement (with integrity)? Why or why not?
6. How much knowledge do you think is possessed by the most brilliant person in the world? Is that enough to know that there is no God?
7. Why is there no such thing as an atheist?
8. After an atheist begins to backslide (change his mind about God), why is it important to swing from the area of the intellect to the conscience? Did you notice how the backsliding atheist in the video clip was feeling conviction of sin despite his atheistic statements?
9. How can a person find absolute proof of God's existence and the truth of Jesus' words? (See John 7:17; 14:21.)
